Subject: Kirby hill MSA 17/03414/eiamaj

Good morning

I am writing to express my disbelief that yet again we have certain party's trying to get a MSA that isn't needed, and definitely not as we have one in Wetherby 12 miles away.

The fact that apple green are making plans for a green hidden service station just points out it is in the wrong position.

For nearly 20 years the people wanting to sell this land and the development company (I understand the same person is behind apple green!!) have tried bully this on Kirby hill. I wouldn't like to guess what it has cost The council every time we have had to fight this, there are other things we could have spent the money on , but due to there greed they persisted?!

Common sense shouldn't let developers keep putting plans in more than 3 times, it's just a form of bullying, leeming bar is the obvious choice brown field sight and a industrial land scape.

Long before we lived in Kirby hill , when this reared its head I thought it was totally proposed in the wrong area so it's not that I'm coming at this as a (nimby) not in my back yard, point of view.

Any way rant over thank you for your time Kind regards Stephen Pullan
